I had the privilege of co-leading our first DM2 conference in Chinameca, El Salvador, alongside Pastor Salvador Sanchez. The conference was a great success! Approximately 50 attendees—including pastors, church leaders, and congregants from various local churches—joined us for this intensive time in God's word. The warmth, hospitality, and hunger for truth from these wonderful brothers and sisters deeply encouraged us.

Throughout the week, attendees gained a clear and biblical understanding of the gospel, especially regarding what it is not. Each participant left equipped with sound doctrine and all the materials necessary to begin discipling others in their churches and communities. Afterwards, we heard powerful testimonies of how God used this course to bring clarity, assurance of salvation, and renewed purpose for ministry.

Grace and peace! My name is Salvador Sanchez, and I want to express my gratitude to God and to DM2 for the opportunity I had to teach at the Romans Bible Conference in Chinameca, San Miguel, El Salvador. Without a doubt, I experienced the very same joy our Lord Jesus Christ felt when He saw discipleship in action (Luke 10:21-24). It is incredible how God and His word can impact our lives with truth, inspiring us not only to be disciples but also to disciple others.

The book of Romans is important for understanding the nature of God, the sinfulness of man, and the redemption that comes through the person and work of Jesus Christ. Truths such as the righteousness of God, salvation by grace through faith, the Christian life, our future glorification, and especially the clear definition of what the gospel is—and is not—were emphasized, along with the assurance of our eternal security. These are truths every believer in Christ should not only know and believe but also share with others.

As a pastor at Iglesia Bíblica Fe y Gracia in the state of Virginia, I recognize the deep need to make disciple-makers. For this reason, I am thankful for every opportunity God gives me through partner ministries like DM2, who not only provide me with training and biblical resources for discipleship in our local church but also allow me to be part of the team of teachers who have embraced the mission of Christ to "make disciples of all the nations" (Matt 28:19).

Attendee responses:

We are so thankful for your interest in this ministry! Brad Rigby and Bret Nazworth had a great trip to Nepal. We'll highlight it in the next newsletter. Please keep the 3DTC Texas graduates in your prayers as they minister in camps and workshops across the US.
